

South Asia – Where Resilience and Inclusion Meet

Are we building Resilience for All?

Keiko Sakoda
Disaster Risk Management Specialist
World Bank

Social Exclusion in South Asia

Caste

Ethnicity
& Religion

Gender &
Patriarchy

Disability

Economic Status

Education
Status

Aging

Do we know what makes DRM projects more socially inclusive?

Structural Resilience

This callout bubble features five icons representing diverse groups: a woman, a man, a woman with glasses, a person in a wheelchair, a woman in a headscarf, and a pregnant woman.

Hydromet

This callout bubble features five icons representing diverse groups: a woman, a man, a woman with glasses, a person in a wheelchair, a woman in a headscarf, and a pregnant woman.

Risk Assessment

This callout bubble features five icons representing diverse groups: a woman, a man, a woman with glasses, a person in a wheelchair, a woman in a headscarf, and a pregnant woman.

Community Resilience

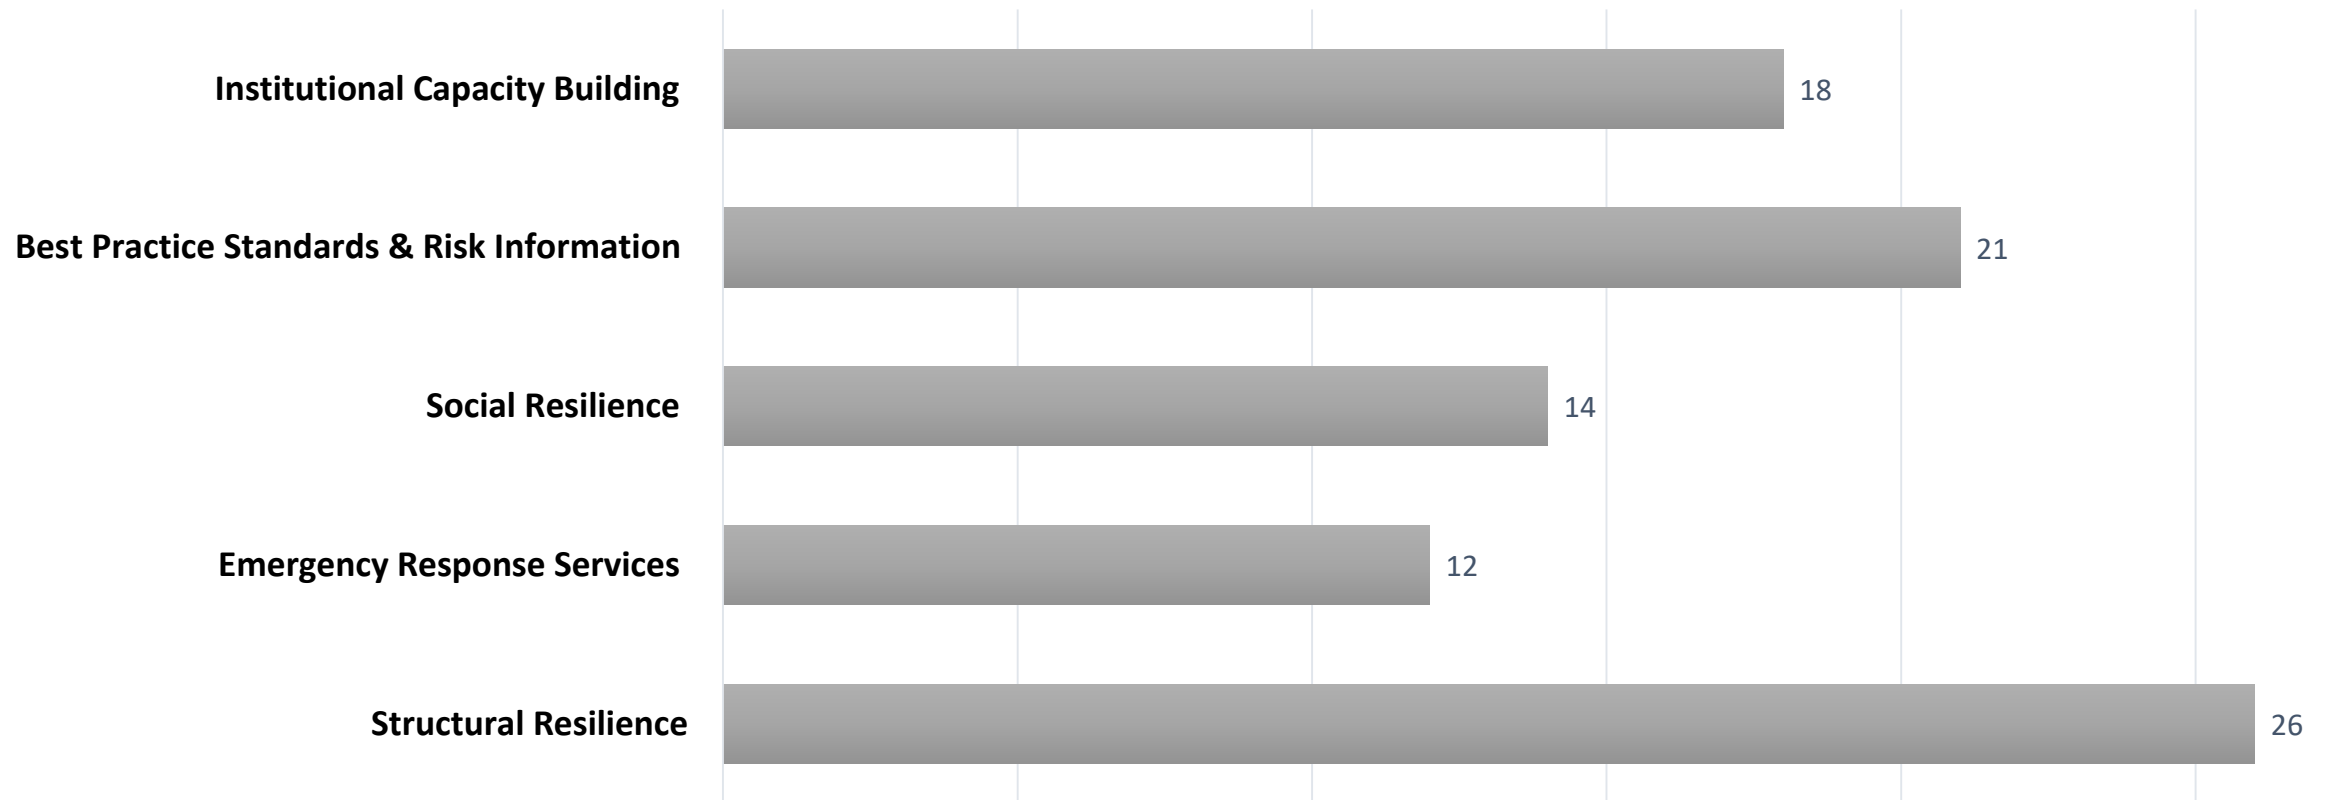

This callout bubble features five icons representing diverse groups: a woman, a man, a woman with glasses, a person in a wheelchair, a woman in a headscarf, and a pregnant woman.

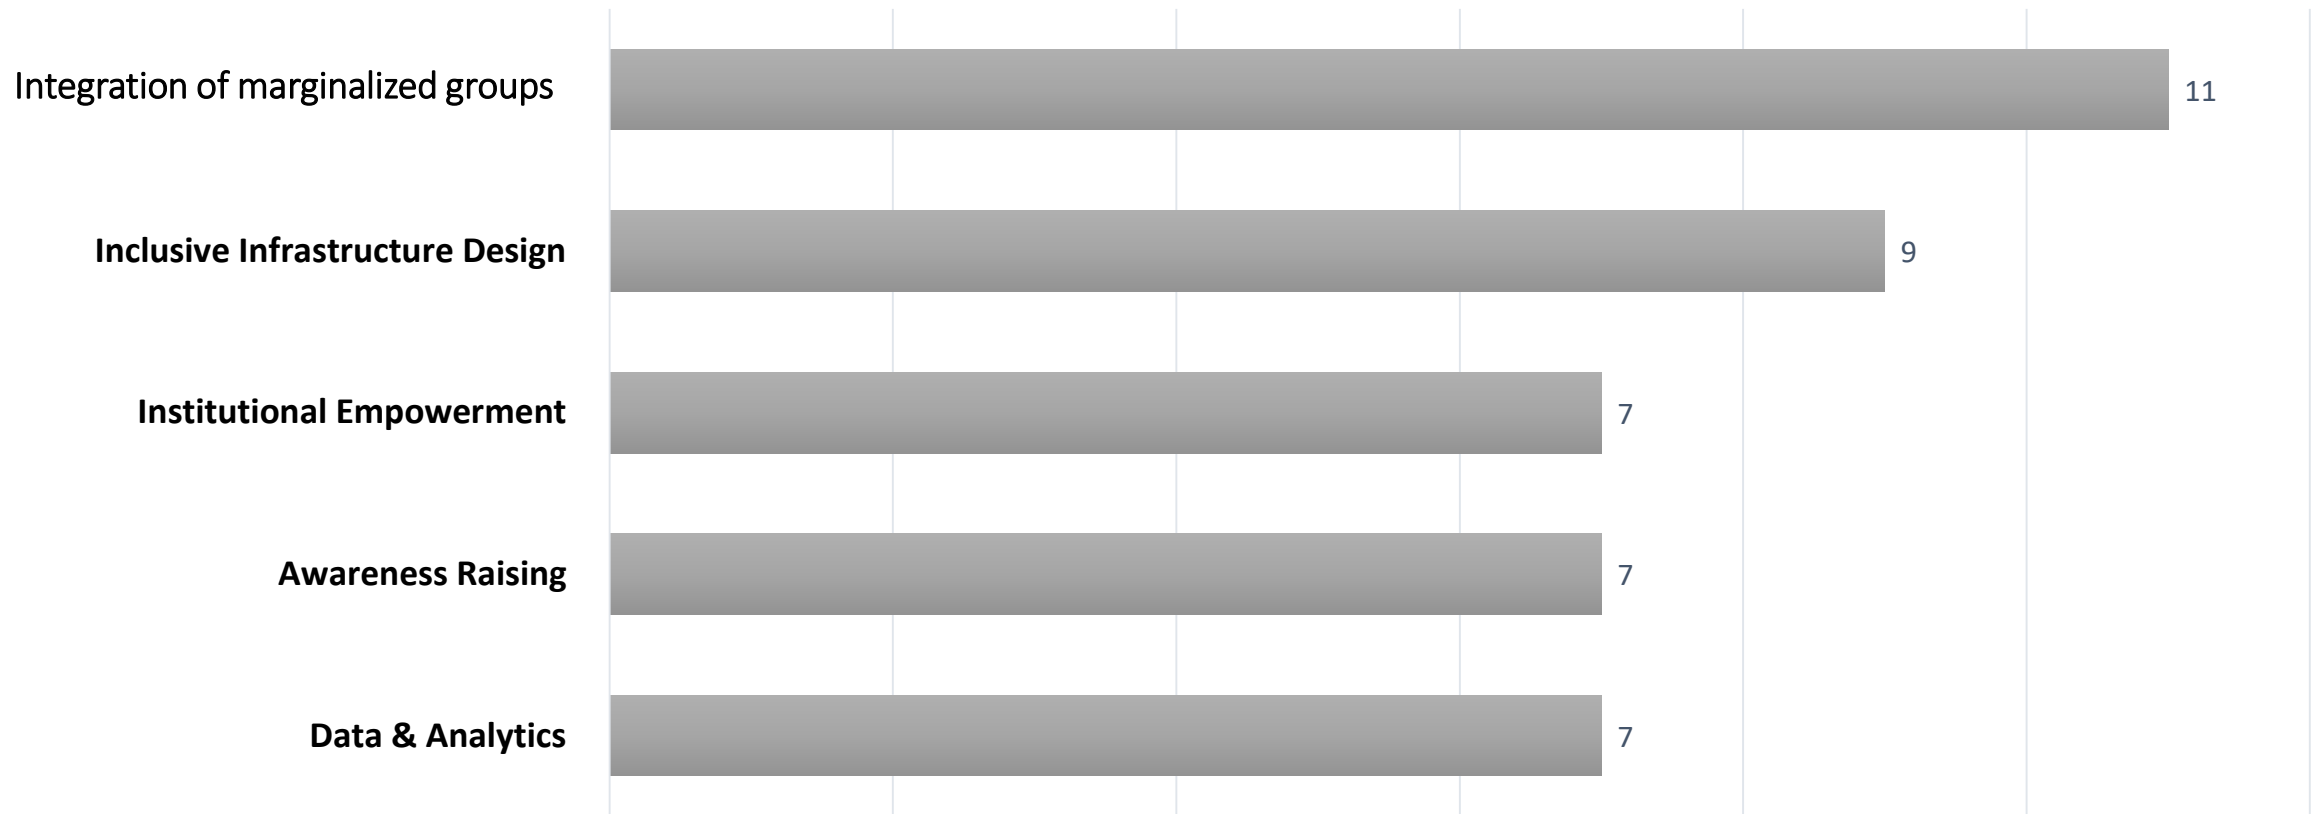

Emergency Response Services

This callout bubble features five icons representing diverse groups: a woman, a man, a woman with glasses, a person in a wheelchair, a woman in a headscarf, and a pregnant woman.

What are highly-demanded DRM topics in South Asia?

What are existing Social Inclusion activities in DRM projects?

Social Inclusion Entry Points

