POST-DISASTER NEEDS ASSESSMENT

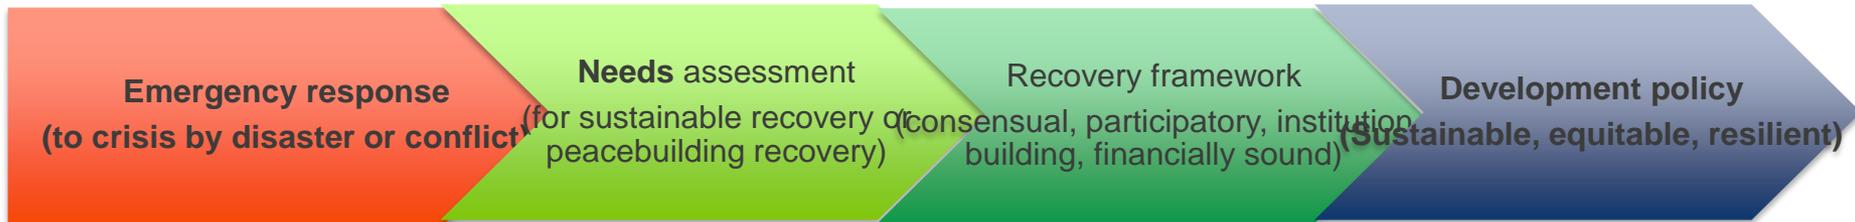

From Recovery Strategy to Recovery Framework

Session Outline

- 1 Why a Recovery Framework
- 2 What is Recovery Framework
- 3 Link and utilization of the PDNA for a RF
- 4 How is RF put together: four modules
 - What: (policy / vision)
 - Who: (Insitutional setup)
 - With what: (financing mechanism)
 - How: (Implementation arrangements)

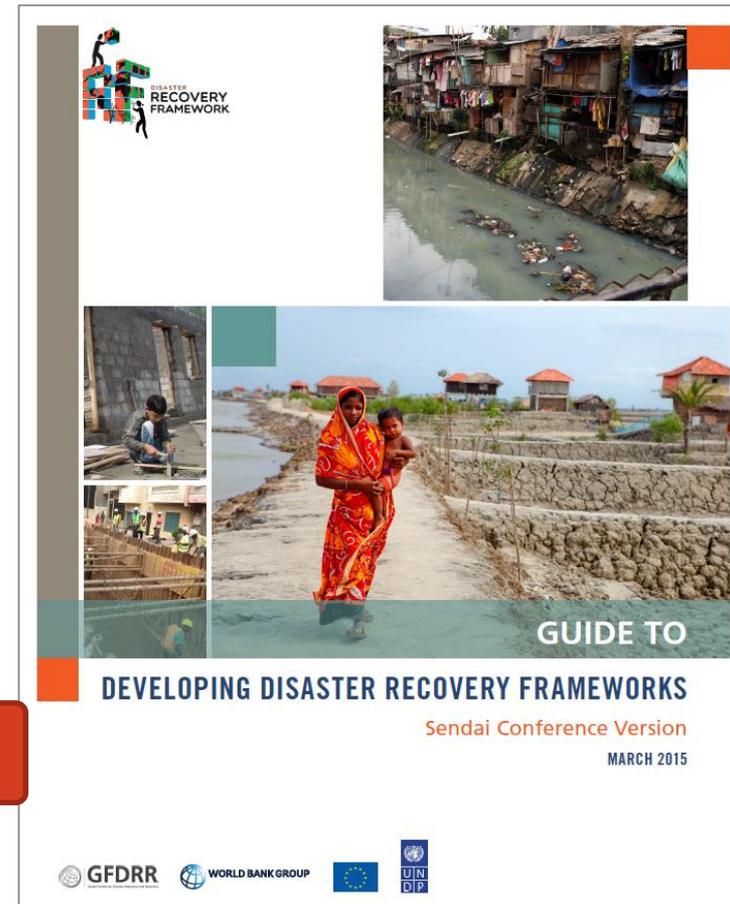

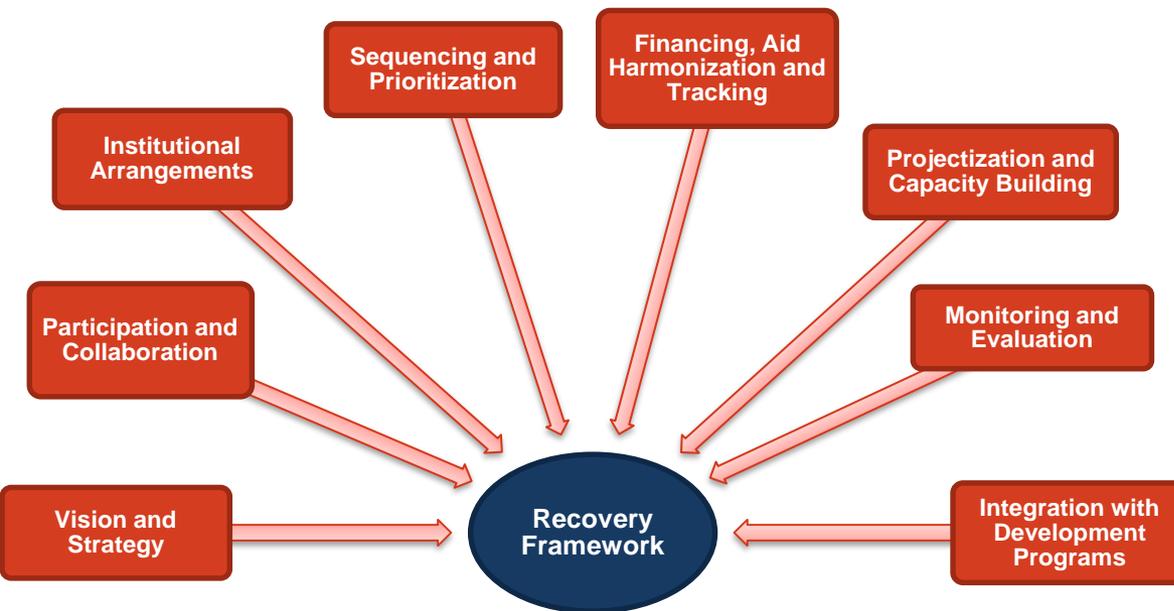

From recovery needs strategy to recovery framework

- To bridge the emergency response and early recovery to short, medium and long term recovery's link to development
- To move from the how much and what constitutes recovery to how to frame and implement recovery
- Is an organizational tool to facilitate inter-sectoral, interinstitutional, multi-stakeholders framed recovery in four key areas:
 - Integrated recovery vision and planning
 - Institutional setup
 - Financial resource mobilisation and allocation
 - Monitoring and evaluation

- Guide governments and other stakeholders in the middle and longer term recovery efforts.

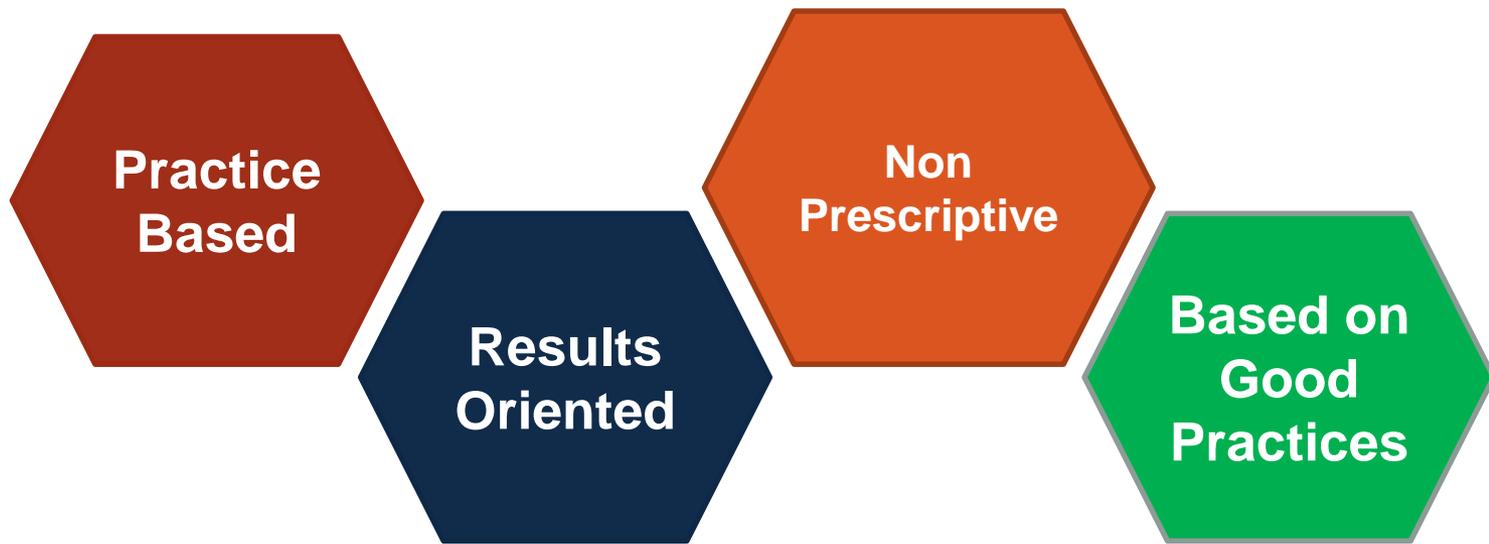

Focus Areas

The DRF Guide

A collaborative effort to assist governments and partners in prioritizing and sequencing post-disaster recovery that reduces future hazards risks and leads to sustainable development

A Guide that is:

The DRF builds on PDNA

PDNA

Estimates damage and losses, and quantifies needs

Comprehensive government-led assessment

Prioritizes needs within sectors; no budgetary review

Initial assessment of institutional issues and capacity constraints

Initial scope for incorporating recovery onto longer term development

Initial scope for incorporating recovery into longer term developmental resilience and risk reduction

DRF

Defines timeframe, priority, financial planning and implementation for recovery

Is a flexible government-led action plan that can be updated periodically

Prioritizes & sequences needs within and across sectors based on budget allocation & external financing estimates

Carries out extensive assessment of recovery capacities and skills and institutional options for recovery; identifies corresponding capacity building needs for efficient and effective recovery

Ensures that recovery is an integral part of development

Ensures recovery is integral part of ongoing development resilience and risk reduction efforts

Summary of DRF Four modules
